

Canadian Wildlife Federation is proud to announce our theme for National Wildlife Week 2015:

WILD MIGRATIONS

Here are some ideas how you or your organization can celebrate Wild Migrations and participate in National Wildlife Week activities April 5 - 11.

- Head outdoors as part of Walk for Wildlife and welcome migrating animals in your neighbourhood back home. Walk for Wildlife kicks off on April 10th
- Get your friends, family and community together to clean-up a migratory habitat near you
- Have your municipality officially proclaim National Wildlife Week
- Organize a wildlife photo contest in your community or submit your wildlife photos to the CWF photo contest.
- Adopt a nature trail with your family and friends. Put up bird feeders and pick up trash along the trail
- Find a hidden treasure or hide one of your own as part of CWF's Geocache
- Help migratory birds by providing nesting structures for songbirds, raptors and waterfowl
- Set up a wildlife film festival at a local community centre, school or auditorium
- Participate in a local biological survey
- Encourage your community media to cover stories about local wildlife and habitat or profile individuals or groups who have helped wildlife and habitats in your area
- Invite a local conservation officer to speak to your local school or community group
- Adopt a migrating or other wildlife animal with CWF's Adopt-An-Animal program
- Test your knowledge of our migrating species by taking our interactive on-line quizzes

National Wildlife Week is a celebration of the wildlife and vast natural habitats we share as Canadians. Get involved by partnering with Canadian Wildlife Federation. Let us know about your event. Full details are available at NationalWildlifeWeek.com.
