CCC Application Process

The CCC program is designed for all Canadians ages 18 to 30. No matter what community or background you come from, we want you to get involved! There are no educational requirements either; the CCC program is meant to provide an exciting new opportunity for young Canadians looking for meaningful experience designed to help improve their chances for success in the future. Special consideration will be given to youth who speak both official languages, as well as youth who are of Indigenous descent or are new to our country. Whether you're well-versed with conservation, or you have very little experience in this area, this program is for you!

This program offers a once-in-a-lifetime experience which includes a wilderness journey and opportunities to learn more about habitat creation and restoration, wildlife management and/or environmental science, & conservation education and public awareness during the fieldwork portion of the program. Youth are able to apply their newfound skills and knowledge to implement a service project in their home communities as part of the final phase of the project.

Eligibility: In order to be considered for the program, applicants must be a Canadian citizen, permanent resident or person who has been granted refugee status in Canada. They must also provide 2 references.

Once an application is received, the steps outlined below will be followed:

Step 1: CCC program administrators will diligently review all applications received for each future cohort. Only those applicants selected to move forward in the application process will be contacted.

Step 2: The applicants selected to move forward will be notified. This notification will include a brief questionnaire and medical form to be completed by the applicants.

Step 3: At this stage, certain applicants will be selected for a formal interview. Once all interviews are complete, the CCC program administrators will select the successful applicants, who will be notified and sent further information.

Note: In steps 2 and 3, unsuccessful applicants will be notified.

Right of Refusal – CCC has the right to refuse an applicant who is, or who becomes, physically or mentally unable to meet the requirements of a trip or whose medical condition poses a safety risk.
